

REPUBLICAN RATIFICATION MEETING.

INDUSTRIAL GATHERING at the Cooper Institute.

GJ A DAY ENTHUSIASM.

7 See Nomination of Republican State Electors Ratified by Acclamation.

Torchlight Procession of the Wide Awakes.

Profuse Display of Fireworks, Blue Lights, Roman Candles and Rockets.

OUTDOOR MEETINGS AND EXCITEMENT.

Prairie Songs, Mountain Chants, Cannons, Flags, Banners, Mottoes, Devices, etc., etc., etc.

A republican ratification meeting was held last night at Cooper Institute, at which the State electoral ticket nominated at Syracuse was ratified by the acclamation of an immense gathering of the unifiers republicans. Long before the hour at which the proceedings were opened the lower hall of the Institute was densely crowded; while over and about the strains of music from approaching bands of men belonging to the various republican war clubs of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg, Wide Awake clubs, &c., were heard. Considerable impatience was manifested by those who had early filled the hall at the delay in the proceedings; but this was confined to stamping of feet, and such occasional calls as the unifiers are wont to indulge in. One of the great features in the hall was the number and variety of the flags, emblems, devices, mottoes, &c., which garnished the front and rear of the platform. An additional new feature, too, was the presence of a considerable number of ladies, and, as if in view of a sommunity arising from such a presence, was the rather novel appearance of two highly burnished pieces of ordnance, bearing the names respectively of Vermont and Maine, in honor, possibly, of the republican character of the Green Mountain and Lumber States. The application of the title from the cause was pretty evident from two of the mottoes on the walls—"Vermont, as much, republi-ans all over;" and "All hall, Maine—30,000 majority." Besides the dense throng which filled up to a perfect jam the large hall, there were platforms erected outside the building—one in front of Clinton Hall, a second at the corner of Fourth avenue and Eighth street, and a third at the corner of Third avenue and Astor place—from which large assemblages were addressed by speakers appointed for the purpose. At these stands the entertainments of the evening were of a varied character, consisting of addresses made by the bands, singing by the Prairie Singers, &c., by the Lincoln and Mountain Glee Club, choruses by the unifiers, &c.

DECORATIONS OF THE HALL.

On the wall at the back of the platform, covering almost the entire length, were two large flags, the one on the left being the

AMERICAN NATIONAL FLAG.

The other—Flag representing the city of New York—

On either side of these flags were mottoes and extracts from Gay and Lincoln speeches, to which references were made by the speakers, eliciting deafening applause from the audience.

On the left was the motto, in large characters,

"FOR GOD AND FOR FAME MEN."

Banners,

the following motto:

"EXCELSIOR."

PORTRAIT OF MR. Seward.

Beneath the words: "Union and Liberty—Come what may, in victory as in defeat; in power as out of power."—Abraham Lincoln.

On the right was the motto:

"PAX DOMINI REGNABIT."

Banners,

"THE LONGEST DAY."

On the right of the platform was suspended a banner, bearing the following motto:

"FOR GOD AND FOR FAME MEN."

On the left—

OPENING PROCESSIONS.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Daniel Conover, who nominated as presiding officer Peter St. Paul, Esq., and Joseph C. Hinckley, Esq., Vice President. The nominations were ratified by acclamation.

The names of Vice Presidents of the meeting were then read and approved. The nomination of the names of the following gentlemen elicited marked applause—Hon. Hamilton Fish, Hon. W. E. Dodge, George F. Steele, Hon. W. Grinnell, William Curtis Noyes, David Dudley Field, Simon Brainerd, and Hon. J. P. M. Moore.

The appointments of secretaries were then ratified.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

Mr. Pease then addressed the meeting. His allusions to the election of republican state electors drew the general applause from the audience, but when he mentioned the name of Mr. Lincoln, the immense galleries, which contained thousands to the north, south, and west, burst into a roar of applause. He then spoke of the importance of the Republican Convention, recently held at Chicago. (Applause.) Emphasizing this important subject this is no ordinary political speech, but it is a speech of statesmen who are now from the proceedings of that meeting. The West was then based on sound conservative principles, which commanded themselves to the north, south, and west, and our country, the whole world over, expressed its admiration of his speech, and his principles, as candidates for office, the men who are sound in their principles, and who are not afraid of maintaining them. (Applause.) The leading parties did not share his opinions, and he has expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is seated, receive the greatest ovation. (Applause.)

He has strongly expressed his opinion on the great question which agitated the public mind, and he has been pronounced conservative. We have seen him in his speeches, and when he is